As trial unfolds in death of George Floyd, faith leaders join police in urging calm in Los Angeles

Capri Maddox, Executive Director of LA Department of Civil and Human Rights, addresses reporters during a press conference with faith and community members outside of the Los Angeles Police Department headquarters to call for calm during possible protests associated with the trial of Derek Chauvin in Minneapolis, in Los Angeles, Calif., on Monday, April 12, 2021. Chauvin, a former Minneapolis police officer, was charged with murder in the death of George Floyd. (Photo by Trevor Stamp, Contributing Photographer)
