Participatory Budgeting

A program of the LA Civil Rights Department

The City's most marginalized communities decide how to budget $8.5 million for new programs through a direct democratic process.

Participatory Budgeting empowers the community to propose ideas, vote on proposals to fund, and implement new services and programs. Over 7,000 cities worldwide have done Participatory Budgeting, including New York City and Chicago.

In 2023, three communities decided to budget more than $3 million for expanded after-school programing in Watts, mobile medical services throughout Southeast LA, rental assistance in Boyle Heights, and a new community garden in the Valley.

In March, six communities voted to let City leaders know they'd like to see the remaining $5.4 million spent on access to nature and nutritious food, career and job readiness programs, wellness, and wraparound support for people experiencing homelessness.
