Participatory Budgeting

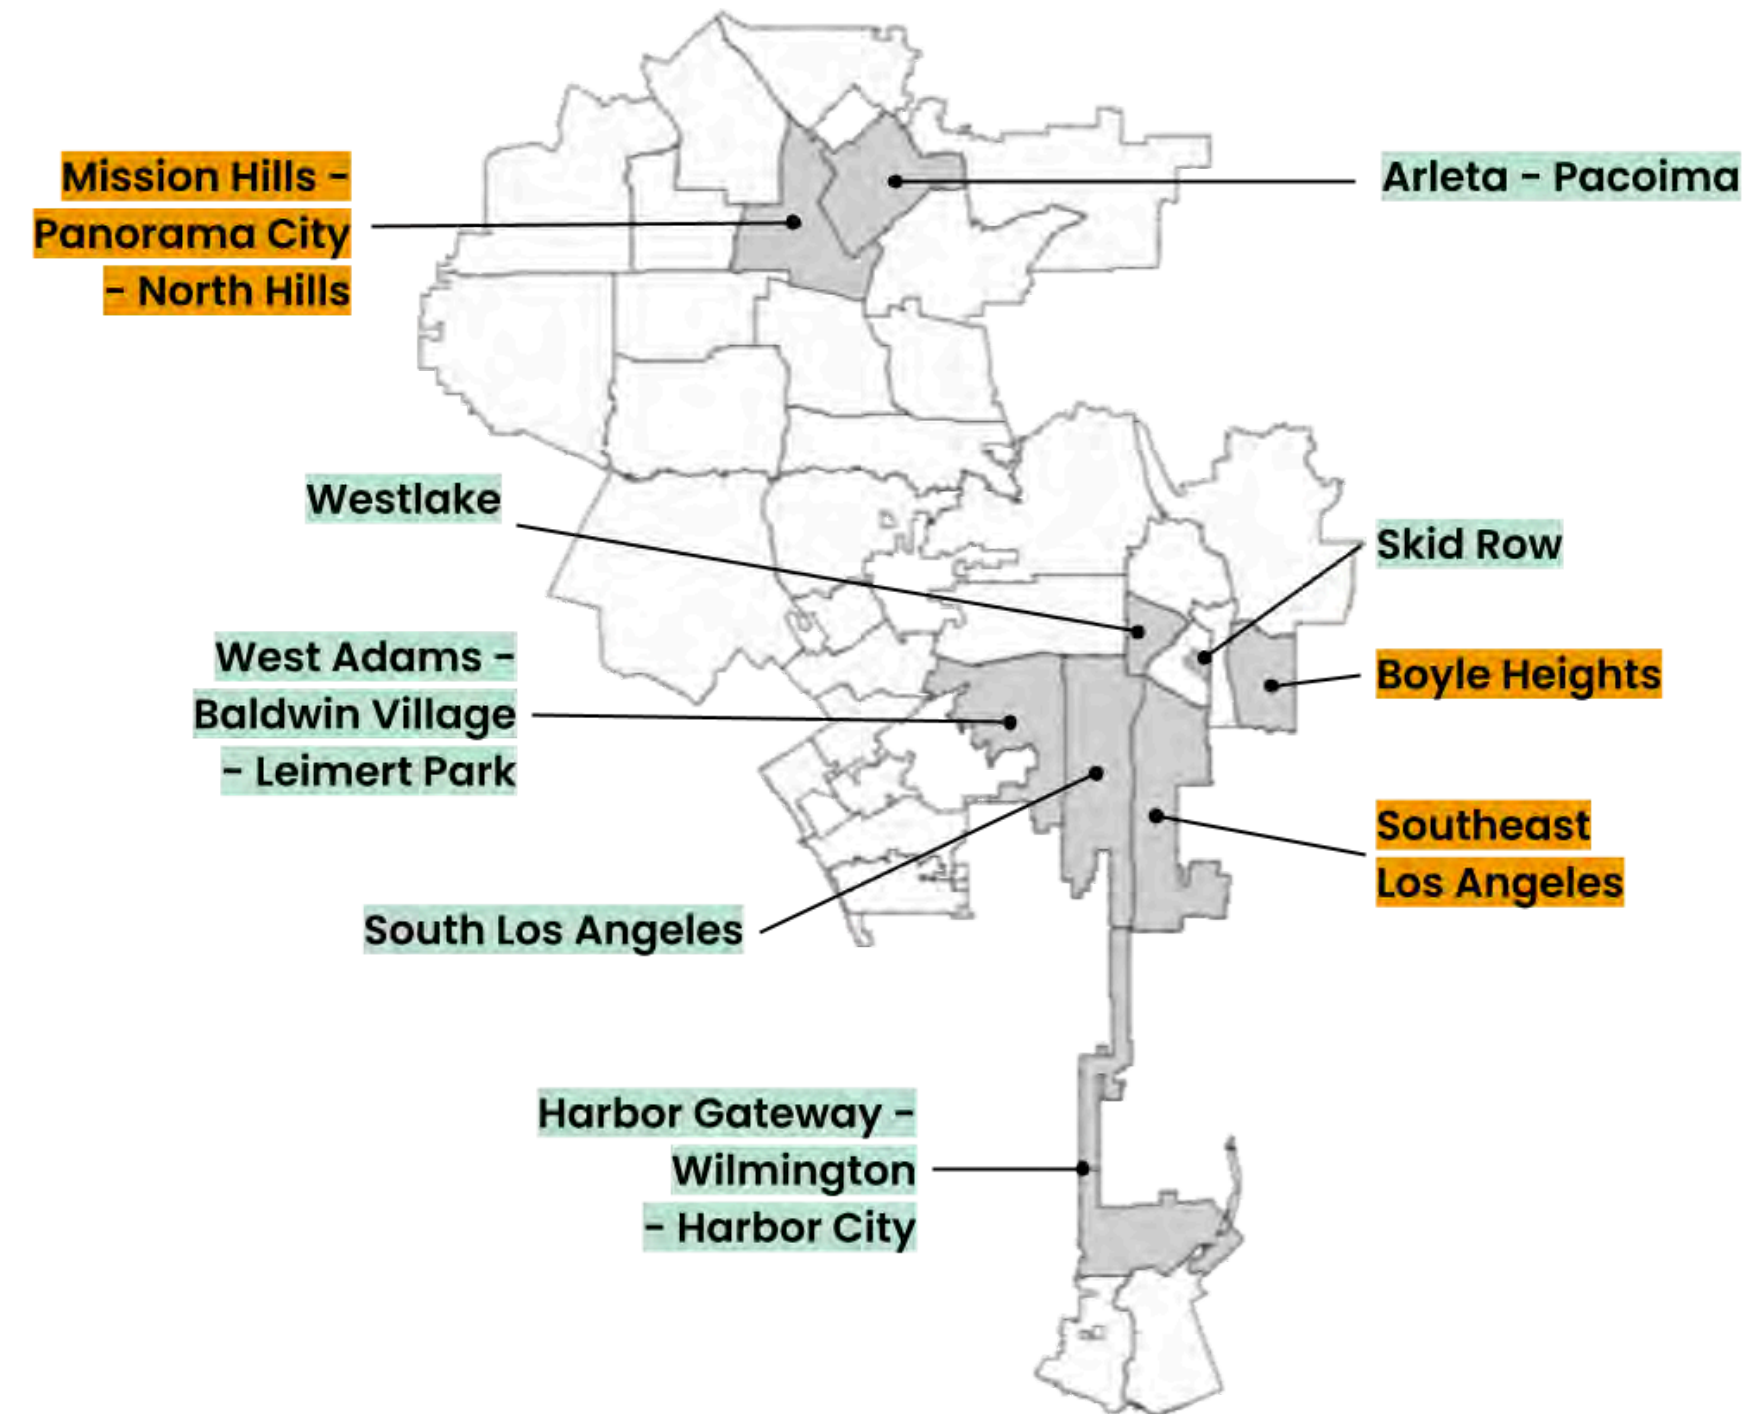

A program of the LA Civil Rights Department

The City's most marginalized communities decide how to budget $8.5 million for new programs through a direct democratic process.

Participatory Budgeting empowers the community to propose ideas, vote on proposals to fund, and implement new services and programs. Over 7,000 cities worldwide have done Participatory Budgeting, including New York City and Chicago.

In 2023, three communities decided to budget more than $3 million for expanded after-school programming in Watts, mobile medical services throughout Southeast LA, rental assistance in Boyle Heights, and a new community garden in the Valley.

In August 2024, the LA City Council approved the results of six communities' votes held this spring, which will allow the remaining $5.4 million to be spent on access to nature and nutritious food, career and job readiness programs, wellness, and wraparound support for people experiencing homelessness.

Civil Rights Enforcement

LA Civil Rights has quasi-judicial authority to address the long-standing discrimination impacting underserved communities, which denies equal treatment in private commerce, education, employment, and housing.

EXPANSION

CA Senator Lola Smallwood-Cuevas advocated for the expansion of workplace discrimination protections with SB 1340.

On September 26, 2024, Governor Newsom signed the bill into law. This pivotal legislation significantly expands our civil rights enforcement.
